Chitwan Jungle Safari Tour - 3 Days

CHITWAN JUNGLE SAFARI TOUR – DISCOVER NEPAL'S WILDLIFE PARADISE

The Chitwan Jungle Safari Tour is an unforgettable short wildlife escape into the heart of Nepal's lush subtropical lowlands. Unlike other trekking destinations in Nepal, within just a few hours from Kathmandu or Pokhara, this 2-night, 3-day adventure takes you to the edge of the Chitwan National Park, one of Asia's premier conservation areas and a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Whether you're looking to unwind after a long trek or want a family-friendly adventure filled with nature and culture, Chitwan delivers a unique blend of wildlife encounters, vibrant traditions, and scenic beauty.

Wildlife and Wilderness in Chitwan National Park

Established in 1973 as Nepal's first national park and later recognized by UNESCO for its rich biodiversity, Chitwan National Park spans over 950 square kilometers of dense jungle, grassland, and riverine ecosystems. This extraordinary sanctuary is home to some of South Asia's most endangered species, including the elusive Royal Bengal tiger, the rare one-horned rhinoceros, wild elephants, sloth bears, and over 540 species of birds. As you venture deeper into the jungle, you may witness gharial crocodiles basking on the banks of the Rapti River, langurs leaping through the Sal trees, and peacocks calling in the early morning light. The park's varied landscape and its incredible biodiversity offer photographers, bird watchers, and wildlife lovers a rare opportunity to experience nature at its most raw and untamed.

Adventure Meets Comfort – What to Expect on Your Safari

The Chitwan Jungle Safari Tour combines excitement with comfort. Upon arrival at your jungle resort, you'll be welcomed with traditional hospitality and a short briefing about your upcoming adventures. A thrilling jeep safari takes you deep into the forest where the chances of spotting wild animals are high, especially in the early mornings or late afternoons. The canoe ride along the Rapti River offers a peaceful yet thrilling glimpse into the aquatic world of crocodiles and water birds. For those who want to get closer to nature, a guided jungle walk led by experienced naturalists reveals the smaller wonders of the forest.

Back at the lodge, your evenings are filled with authentic experiences — a cultural performance by the Tharu community, delicious local cuisine, and mesmerizing sunsets over the riverbanks. If you're interested in conservation, the visit to the Elephant Breeding Center offers a meaningful perspective on Nepal's wildlife protection efforts.

Cultural Connection in the Tharu Village of Sauraha

Chitwan is more than just wildlife — it is also a cultural gem. The tour takes you to the heart of Sauraha, a charming riverside village inhabited by the Tharu people, one of Nepal's oldest indigenous communities. Their lifestyle, architecture, and customs have remained deeply connected to the forest for generations. Walking through the village gives you an authentic look into their day-to-day lives, traditional homes made of mud and straw, and the artistic spirit expressed through dances, music, and storytelling. This cultural immersion adds soul to your safari and leaves a lasting impression far beyond the jungle.

The best season for the Chitwan Jungle Safari Tour runs from late September to early June. From October to March, the days are warm and sunny, ideal for wildlife sightings and outdoor activities. April and May bring hotter weather, often luring more animals to waterholes, making these months especially good for photography. The monsoon season, which lasts from mid-June to mid-September, is less favorable due to heavy rains, although the forest becomes beautifully green and lush. For clear skies, vibrant jungle life, and cultural programs in full swing, the dry months provide the most rewarding experience.

Getting to Chitwan National Park

Traveling to Chitwan is convenient and scenic. You can reach the park by tourist bus, private car, or a short domestic flight from Kathmandu or Pokhara. The overland drive, lasting about five to six hours, offers beautiful views of terraced hills, rivers, and rural settlements. Flights to Bharatpur, the nearest airport, take just 25 minutes and are ideal for those with limited time. Our Chitwan Jungle Safari Tour includes transportation from Kathmandu or Pokhara, ensuring a hassle-free journey to the wilderness.

Cost of Chitwan Jungle Safari Tour 2026

Our 2-night, 3-day Chitwan Safari Tour is designed to suit solo travelers, couples, families, and groups. For solo travelers, the tour costs USD 200, while small groups of two to five travelers pay USD 180 per person. Larger groups receive better rates, with prices dropping to USD 150 for six to ten people, and USD 140 per person for groups of eleven to twenty. This package includes transportation, accommodation at a jungle lodge, full-board meals, jungle activities, and cultural experiences.
